

Broadband communication is a vital part of consumers' ability to receive information. As such the FCC must continue to regulate this medium to prevent monopolies and encourage price competition among ISPs. Thank you.